Furniture, grocery and butcher wagons were backed up to all sides of the house. The first thing to be removed was a $400 piano and then the furniture dealers began to grab their goods as fast as they could. The grocers and butchers soon divested the cupboard, and all that remained after the game was over was a few straws upon which the carpet had been laid.

Where Barker and his friends have gone no one knows, but everybody connected with them is glad that it was no worse.

TO PLAY FIRST BASE

Todax" Carey Has Reported for Duty With the Washington Club.

"Todax" Carey, one of the most popular base ball players of this city, left Monday for Washington, where he will report at headquarters of the American League club in that city. Carey will play first base this season, he having signed a contract early last fall.

Last season he was a member of the Buffalo club, and while with that organization he made quite a record for himself. The Washington club will leave for North Carolina within a short time to practice, as the season of the American league opens

Wouldn't Have Dogs Killed. Officer Stafford went to Walker yesterday afternoon for the purpose of killing two dogs belonging to a Slav which had been killing sheep belonging to some of the farmers nearby. Frank P. Riley and Eria B. Colledge, The Slav refused to allow the dogs East Liverpool, have been licensed to to be killed and the farmers will probably take the matter to court.

Applications. The East End Pastime club, at a meeting held in its rooms on First avenue, last evening, nominated the following officers to serve for a term of one year: President, Thomas Putnam; vice president, Ted Allison; secretary, Edward Fisher; assistant secretary, Martin Calhoun; treasurer, Martin Calhoun. The election will be held two weeks hence.

Several propositions for membership were received, which will be acted upon at the next meeting.

An Interesting Service.

Another interesting prayer service was held in the Second U. P. church last evening, the attendance being very large. The meeting was in charge of Rev. John C. Hanley, formerly of the East End, but who has been stationed at Canton for several months. Rev. Mr. Hanley returned to Canton this morning.

A Base Balt Club.

What will be known as the Big Four base ball club has been organized by a number of young men of the East End, residing in and about Oakland and the Klondike. The club will be under the management of Robert Parker, and games will be solicited with other clubs of the city as soon as the season opens.

Again Expressed His Pleasure at His Reception to an Interviewer-Said He Would Tell the Same to His Brother, the Emperor.

Cuxhaven, March 19 .- The Ham burg-American line steamer Deutschland arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening from Cherbourg, having on board Prince Henry, of Prussia, and his suite. The Deutschland was met in the roadstead by the German bat tleship Kaiser Wilhelm II, on board of which was Emperor William. His majesty greeted Prince Henry cordially. The prince boarded the battleship, which afterwards started for Cuxhaven, March 18 .- (On board steamer Deutschland, 3 p. m.)-As the steamer drew near to Cuxhaven Prince Henry received the correspondent of the Associated Press in his cabin. The prince said:

"I desire to send a last word through you to America, to say how deeply grateful I am for the measureless kindness I received while there. I tried to say this before I left, but I want to say again that I am grateful for the cordial and generous manner in which the people and the president of the United States received me.

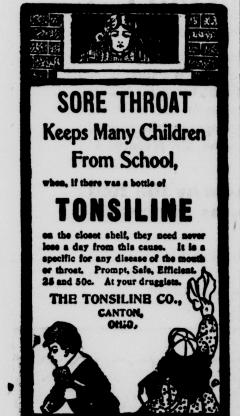

Talked With Many Individuals.

"I met and talked with as many individuals as I could, but of course I saw most of the people in crowds, and sometimes only from the railroad car platform, and only long enough to touch my cap or take off my hat to them. i wish to thank all those thousands for the trouble they took." The prince spoke with feeling.

"I had no opportunity," he continued, "of studying the details of industry as I would like to have done. As to the fatigue of the trip, the prince said:

"I was often tired and I had to be careful of what I said, both publicly and privately. But since my long sleeps on board the Deutschland 1 would be ready to return to America Plymouth. at once for just such another trip This one has been so full of pleasure and instruction. A SPANISH COUNT CURED OF LA GRI

Count Segundo de Ovies was a Carlist exila. The signature of his uncle, Louis De Ovies, is found with that of John Quincy Adams ceding Florida to the United States in a treaty with Spain. The Count is forty-six years of age, an exile from Orietto, situated in the northern part of Spain, and has been exiled since 1876; he is wealthy, and has traveled and studied the customs, habits and languages of twenty-five different nations.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, the Count gives his endorsement to their great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following has affected the lungs, and the early

The Canfield, Atlantic City, N. J. The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen-" Last winter my secretary had a severe attack of grippe and catarrh are at present the la grippe which was cured effectually by the use of four bottles of Peruna, so when I contracted the same unpleasant sickness last fall I at once sent for a bottle. It truly worked wonders, and removed the sickening and sore feeling I had within a few days. I would not be without it new for any money, and when I go away I carry be pleased to give you his valuable ad-Peruna as a valuable perquisite to my traveling outfit." -- JULIAN SEGUNDO, CONDE DE OVIES.

TEARLY everybody is having la grippe again. It resembles somewhat in the beginning a severe cold. A chill or cold spell is followed by aching bones, sore throat, headache, cough, and general weakness. Its course may be quite slight or severe, but in either case it nearly always leaves one in a miserable condition. Unless Peruna is taken it will be weeks or months before a person regains his usual health. If the victim is fortunate enough to begin the use of Peruns at the commencement of the attack the course of the grip is much shortened, and the system is left in a natural state.

People who have had la grippe, but are still suffering from the after-effects, should not neglect to take Peruna, as it will promptly restore them to health. Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments of the Henry Distin Manufacturing Co., writes the

which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna.

I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."-Henry Distin.

A large per cent of those who are afflicted with this epidemic, instead of getting well as they ought to, will have chronic catarrh as the result. This to almost invariably the case unless Peruna is taken as soon as possible after the grip begins.

Every one who has observed the effect of Peruna during the last three epidemics of la grippe positively knows that this remedy will cure it permanently.

The fact is, however, that a great multitude of people will not take Peruna. and a foundation for chronic catarrh will be laid. Even in cases where chronic catarrh stages of catarrhal consumption have been developed, Peruna can be relied upon as a prompt and lasting cure. La two great enemies of life in the land. Peruna is a cure for either. If you do not derive prompt and satis-

Hong Kong, March 19.-General Ma has been defeated by Kwang-Si rebels. who have taken possession of Fang-Cheng. They have killed or captured all the Mandarins and have looted the town.

General Ma attacked the rebel strongholds, but after an engage ment lasting two days, was forced to retreat. The rebels then established their headquarters at Fang-Cheng.

The rebellion is spreading rapidly in the province of Kwang-Si, Kwang-Tung and Yun-Nan. Marshall Su is at Lien-Chou, and General Ma is at Kao-Chou (both ia Kwang-Tung province.) Both of thes commanders are awalting reinforcements. They wish to join their forces, but the rebels are holding all the intervening passes and prevent a junction of the government troops.

Many of the imperial soldiers are joining the rebels, owing to the superior pay offered them and the opportunity for looting.

The rebels are also seizing the supplies sent from the interior for the government forces. The rebellion was started in

Kwang-Si several weeks ago. The insurgents included in their manifesto the overthrow of the Manchus and the establishment of a Chinese A letter from Tien-Pai, 50 miles

Help Indicated.

St. Clairsville, O., March 19.-Bar ney Devine and Leonard Stevens, the convicted murderers of Clarence Warrick, escaped from the county jail here some time Monday night. They were confined in the same cell.

Devine and Stevens cut a hole through the floor of their cell and dropped into the cellar, where the only obstacle to their freedom was a window, which was easily removed The floor of the cell was heavy sheet iron, under which was eight inches of cement resting upon another layer of sheet iron. Soot on the lower side evidently from a torch, justifies the suspicion that outsiders aided them. The sheriff's posse failed to discover any trace of the fugitives. They were convicted on circum stantial evidence and sentenced for life. The circuit court granted a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of testimony. For the purpose of holding them pending a search for a wit ness, they were indicted for perjury. Devine was convicted last week and Stevens' trial was set for next week.

General Ma attacked the rebel strongholds, but after an engage ment lasting two days, was forced to retreat. The rebels then established their headquarters at Fang-Cheng.

The rebellion is spreading rapidly in the province of Kwang-Si, Kwang-Tung and Yun-Nan.

Marshall Su is at Lien-Chou, and General Ma is at Kao-Chou (both ia Kwang-Tung province.) Both of thes commanders are awaiting reinforcements. They wish to join their forces, but the rebels are holding all the intervening passes and prevent a junction of the government troops. Many of the imperial soldiers are joining the rebels, owing to the superior pay offered them and the opportunity for looting.

The rebels are also seizing the supplies sent from the interior for the government forces. The rebellion was started in

Kwang-Si several weeks ago. The insurgents included in their manifesto the overthrow of the Manchus and the establishment of a Chinese dynasty. A letter from Tien-Pai, 50 miles from Kwang-Chou, says all business is suspended there, owing to fear of the rebels.

The rebel leader is Hung-Ming, a relative of the celebrated Hung-Sou-Chen, leader of the Tai-Ping rebellion.

MUNICIPAL CODE BILL

Opposition Develops Under the Leadership of the Cuyahoga Delegation.

FATE OF BILL IN DOUBT

Protests Against And Petitions for Canal Abandonment-Bills to Be Acted Upon-Terse Legislative Review.

Columbus, O., March 19 .- (Speoial.)—There is a somewhat tempestuous way ahead for the mumicipal code bill even when amended to meet the demands made by different cities. Last week it looked as if the bill would slip through with an almost unanimous vote. George B. Cox, of Cincinnati, had sent word that ft was agreeable to him. Dayton, Columbus and Toledo were all in line and it was supposed Cleveland would likewise give endorsement. But saddenly on Monday the members from Cuyahoga announced that they would not support the measure. This was followed by similar statements from other members, and it was discovered that a good sized opposition existed which had needed but the opportunity to show itself. This opportunity was presented through the leadership of the Cuyahoga members. Mayor Johnson, of Cleveland, doubtless excited the animosity of the Cuyahoga men. and did it after a careful review of the measure which, he said, some of the representatives had evidently neglected to do. The chief complaint is that the bill classes together under one herd all municipalities of 5,000 people or more, and provides for the same form of government. He declares it to be the heighth of folly to suppose that what would be suitable for Cleveland and Cincinnati would be equally well suited to a small town of 5,000 inhabitants. He believes the reverse of this proposition to be equally lackin the element of good judgment. Moreover, the contention is made that the majority of the members have failed to read the bill with any care and are lacking in anything like a comprehensive idea of its provisions, and for them to vote for something they do not understand, he says, would be neglecting to perform their duty. As to the failure to pick their way through the 1,200 sections of the bill many of the members must plead guilty, for to have done so would have meant the neglect of nearly everything | regular thing authorized by the state else. The result of this determined opposition is felt and the bill is not so sure of passage as it was a week ago. Its defenders, however, are working in its behalf with a most commendable zeal, and refuse to admit that anything like defeat awaits them. should the bill go under, its overbrow will be followed by a flood of local measures affecting different municipalities where changes in government are desired, and most of which the supreme court will probably declare unconstitutional. This argument to be used in favor of the general bill, and, indeed, is the chief peg upon which its supporters are hanging their hopes. They contend that in no other way can the network of laws

That staid and solid member, Mr. Willis, of Hardin county, who seldom attempts to change established customs, has broken over his rule and prepared a bill advocating the creation of a new state department-as if there were not enough state departments now. He desires to secure anmual inspections of the affairs of the oficials of every county in the state at least once a year, in order that the taxpayers may have the gratifying knowledge that their money is being expended in the right way and their officials keeping close to the straight and narrow path. To carry the oill into effect it would be necessary to appoint three inspectors, who would work under the direction of the state auditor. These officials would be obliged to worry along on an amual salary of 2,000 each per year, together with heir traveling expenses. Our Day Was Once but Six Hours Long

By SIR ROBERT BALL, Professor of Astronomy and Geometry, Cambridge, England

ODAY is longer than yesterday and yesterday longer than the day before; not a great difference, a fragment of a second in an aggregate of centuries. The loss in a million of years is about seventeen minutes, in 4,000,000 years about an hour; so 4,000,000 years ago the day was twenty-three hours long.

GOING FARTHER BACKWARD, ONE COMES TO DAYS OF TWENTY-TWO HOURS, TWENTY, FIFTEEN, TEN, EIGHT, EVEN OF

This may have been 300,000,000 years ago, but there is evidence that at one time the rotation of the earth was four times as rapid as now. It then had sixteen times as much energy as at present. Fifteen-sixteenths of that now is gone. But energy is never lost. In this case it has been transformed into heat, and in the radiation of that heat the earth has simply parted with so much of its original energy. The earth is gradually dissipating its heat into space. THE HEAT MOVING FROM THE CENTER OF THE GLOBE TO THE SURFACE AND LOST THERE EACH YEAR WOULD BE ENOUGH TO MELT A FILM OF ICE COVERING THE ENTIRE EARTH ONE-TENTH OF AN INCH THICK.

If the earth is losing heat and has been doing so, it was once hotter than it is now; ages since it was redhot, white hot, molten fire mist. Some believe the earth's heat is due to the friction of the tides. Undoubtedly the tides have an influence in slowing the earth's rotation on its axis, and this bears upon our point. The remarkable boring for coal near Leipsic has established the gradient of the earth's temperature, proving that below a certain point near the surface, to which the heat of day penetrates, there is a regular increase in temperature. At a mile below that point the thermometer registers a constant temperature of 80 degrees higher than at the point itself, and conditions show that that gradient continues.

By ingenious investigation a means has been found of computing the heat equivalent of tidal action. The gradient thereof has been discovered to be a degree for every 2,000 feet, which is entirely inadequate to account for the known gradient of 80 degrees. The latter, hence, is due to internal heat.

simply that the state may know its officials are doing the duties for which they were elected. Now, when the taxpayers of a county ask for an examination into the doings of some of their officials it creates excitement and immediately a suspicion is raised that something is wrong, when perhaps nothing of that kind is suspected. If this bill passed examinations being a and under state control, there would be no excitement attending the matter, and it would be looked upon as a part of regular procedure. Officials would look more closely to their work and better results had all around. For that reason it ought to pass.

Protests against and petitions the abandonment of the canals still continue to pour in and flood the members. If the canals were let loose the flood could not be greater. For things that were thought to be old and worn out and of no use, the canals have created enough excitement to warrant their continuance for 100 years. The sentiment of the people seems to be about evehly divided, shifting according to location, and the interests of the people petitioning. As a matter of fact the situation surrounding this legislation is as difficult of solution as it was a week, or even two weeks ago, and no one knows what the outcome will be, except that it may be definitely said the entire system will not be given up. Portions of it here and there may be dropped wherever it can be demonstrated that doing so will not result either in working injury to the system as a whole, or to interests lying along the canal banks. Mr. Painter, of Wood, the original advocate of canal abandonment, still maintains that the waterways will be given up in a large measure, but he admits that the entire system cannot be abandoned at this time.

Tark of an early adjournment is vanishing. With a volume of business before it consisting of more than 600 unpassed bills and more coming in nearly every day, with the appropriation bill in a yet uncompleted state, and with the wheels moving slowly, the hope of getting through before the latter part of April is futile unless much that ought to be done is left undone. Things have not moved with the quickness and precision this year that they usually do, owing largely to the amount of important business which has been presented. The matter of redistricting the state, the municipal code bill, the canal abandonment measure, the proposed change in the primary election laws and the taxation reforms, have all taken up time and prolonged the session. True, they offered opportunity to members to demonstrate their eloquence, and many new orators have been brought out, but it has all been done at the expense of early adjournment. Not one of these important measures is yet a law, and the fate of all hangs in doubt, the tide swinging back and forth day by day like a pendulum as new arguments for and against are presented. The only bills which give any real hope of getting through without being amended out of all semblance of original form are the taxation measures, and it has room and executive chamber to give them promise of passage. The matter of redistricting is still up in the air, literally speaking, owing to the urgent demands made by representatives from everywhere that their counties must be taken care of. It was ag ed a week ago that the Twelfth district must be changed, and would be, but no sooner had this gone out than the Third and the Thirteenth, and others came in with a cry and protested that they were being unfairly treated and threatening to upset everything unless recognition were given them. In the hope of bringing some kind of a satisfactory agreement about and facilitating a final vote, Chairman Painter, General Otis said that when he left called a caucus of the Republican memwill be made to solidify sentiment and any objection which can be raised and time. over the heads of all protests, the Twelfth district will be made to conthat his followers are not as sanguine as they were a week ago, while the advocates of no change can scarcely conceal the pleasure they feel at the

First Test of Strength Shown on Vote on Motion For Previous Question. Dick Offered a Resolution, Which Met With Defeat.

Washington, March 19 .- The advo cates of the Cuban reciprocity scored a decisive victory last night at the conference of the Republican men.bers of the house of representatives. the proposition of Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, for a 20 per cent reduction of duty, with the Sibley amendment limiting the duration of the reduced rates to Dec. 1, 1903, being adopted by a vote of 85 yeas to 31 nays. This result was reached at 11:30 o'clock, after a protracted debate, followed by a series of exciting roll calls. The first test was when Mr. Payne concluded the speechmaking with a motion for the previous question on al! pending propositions. The motion prevailed, 78 to 56.

A vote was then taken on a sub stitute offered by Representative Dick, of Ohio, in behalf of those opposing the reciprocity plan, offering in its stead a plan of direct payment to Cuba covering several years. This was defeated, 57 to 79. An amendment by Mr. Morris, of Minnesota, to take off the differential on refined sugar was defeated, 50 to 72. The ways and means proposition for reciprocity, with the Sibley amendment limiting its duration, was then agreed to, 85, to 31. While the voting was in progress quite a number of those who oppose the ways and means plan left the chamber.

Mr. Mason made an attack upon auarchy and its methods, and incidentally criticised an amendment to the bill offered by Mr. Bacon. ODAY is longer than yesterday and yesterday longer than the day before; not a great difference, a fragment of a second in an aggregate of centuries. The loss in a million of years is about seventeen minutes, in 4,000,000 years about an hour; so 4,000,000 years ago the day was twenty-three hours long.

GOING FARTHER BACKWARD, ONE COMES TO DAYS OF TWENTY-TWO HOURS, TWENTY, FIFTEEN, TEN, EIGHT, EVEN OF

This may have been 300,000,000 years ago, but there is evidence that at one time the rotation of the earth was four times as rapid as now. It then had sixteen times as much energy as at present. Fifteen-sixteenths of that now is gone. But energy is never lost. In this case it has been transformed into heat, and in the radiation of that heat the earth has simply parted with so much of its original energy. The earth is gradually dissipating its heat into space. THE HEAT MOVING FROM THE CENTER OF THE GLOBE TO THE SURFACE AND LOST THERE EACH YEAR WOULD BE ENOUGH TO MELT A FILM OF ICE COVERING THE ENTIRE EARTH ONE-TENTH OF AN INCH THICK.

If the earth is losing heat and has been doing so, it was once hotter than it is now; ages since it was redhot, white hot, molten fire mist. Some believe the earth's heat is due to the friction of the tides. Undoubtedly the tides have an influence in slowing the earth's rotation on its axis, and this bears upon our point. The remarkable boring for coal near Leipsic has established the gradient of the earth's temperature, proving that below a certain point near the surface, to which the heat of day penetrates, there is a regular increase in temperature. 'At a mile below that point the thermometer registers a constant temperature of 80 degrees higher than at the point itself, and conditions show that that gradient continues.

By ingenious investigation a means has been found of computing the heat equivalent of tidal action. The gradient thereof has been discovered to be a degree for every 2,000 feet, which is entirely inadequate to account for the known gradient of 80 degrees. The latter, hence, is due to internal heat.

simply that the state may know its officials are doing the duties for which them promise of passage. The matter they were elected. Now, when the taxpayers of a county ask for an examination into the doings of some of their officials it creates excitement and immediately a suspicion is raised that something is wrong, when perhaps nothing of that kind is suspected. If must be changed, and would be, but this bill passed examinations being a regular thing authorized by the state and under state control, there would be no excitement attending the matter, and it would be looked upon as a part of regular procedure. Officials would look more closely to their work and better results had all around. For that reason it ought to pass.

continue to pour in and flood the members. If the canals were let loose the flood could not be greater. For things that were thought to be old and worn out and of no use, the canals have created enough excitement to warrant their continuance for 100 years. The sentiment of the people seems to be about evenly divided, shifting according to location, and the interests of the people petitioning. As a matter of fact the situation surrounding this legislation is as difficult of solution as it was a week, or even two weeks ago, and no one knows what the outcome will be, except that it may be definitely said the entire system will not be given up. Portions of it here and there may be dropped wherever it can be demonstrated that doing so will not result either in working injury to the system as a whole, or to interests lying along the canal banks. Mr. Painter, of Wood, the original advocate of canal abandonment, still maintains that the waterways will be given up in a large measure, but he admits that the entire system cannot be abandoned at this time. Tank of an early adjournment is vanishing. With a volume of business before it consisting of more than 600 unpassed bills and more coming in nearly every day, with the appropriation bill in a yet uncompleted state, and with the wheels moving slowly, the hope of getting through before the latter part of April is futile unless much that ought to be done is left undone. Things have not moved with the quickness and precision this year Every ordinary cold deserves | that they usually do, owing largely to the amount of important business which has been presented. The matter of redistricting the state, the municipal code bill, the canal abandonment measure, the proposed change in the primary election laws and the taxation reforms, have all taken up time and prolonged the session. True, they offered opportunity to members to demonstrate their eloquence, and many new orators have been brought out, but early adjournment. Not one of these important measures is yet a law, and the fate of all hangs in doubt, the tide swinging back and forth day by day like a pendulum as new arguments for and against are presented. First Test of Strength Shown on Vote on Motion For Previous Question. Dick Offered a Resolution, Which Met With Defeat.

Washington, March 19 .- The advo cates of the Cuban reciprocity scored a decisive victory last night at the conference of the Republican men. pers of the house of representatives, the proposition of Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, for a 20 per cent reduction of duty, with the Sibley amendment limiting the duration of the reduced rates to Dec. 1, 1903, being adopted by a vote of 85 yeas to 31 nays. This result was reached at 11:30 o'clock, after a protracted debate, followed by a series of exciting roll calls. The first test was when Mr. Payne concluded the speechmaking with a motion for the previous question on all pending propositions. The motion prevailed, 78 to 56.

A vote was then taken on a substitute offered by Representative Dick, of Ohio, in behalf of those opposing the reciprocity plan, offering in its stead a plan of direct payment to Cuba covering several years. This was defeated, 57 to 79. An amendment by Mr. Morris, of Minnesota, to take off the differential on refined sugar was defeated, 50 to 72. The ways and means proposition for reciprocity, with the Sibley amendment limiting its duration, was then agreed to, 85, to 31. While the voting was in progress quite a number of those who oppose the ways and means plan left the chamber.

As to the capacity of the Filipinos for self-government he said that Aguinaldo's former secretary of state had told him that it would take 100 years to accomplish this. DREW MR. BACON'S FIRE.

linois Man Explained.

Washington, March 19 .- For three hours yesterday the senate had under consideration the bill providing for the protection of the president of the United States and for the punishment by United States courts of those who commit assaults on him. Mr. Bacon, of Georgia, opposed the bill, and Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Mason, of Illinois, supported it. Mr. Bacon's arguments followed the lines of his speech delivered 10 days ago Mr. Hoar's speech was largely legal and constitutional. He maintained the right of the government to protaken much work and worry and the it by purchasing from our druggist tect itself against assaults upon its sovereignty through the president.

Mr. Mason made an attack upon anarchy and its methods, and incidentally criticised an amendment to the bill offered by Mr. Bacon. He denounced it as opening the door to special pleading for the benefit of assassins of the president. This drew Mr. Bacon's fire. He considered Mr. Mason's criticism a personal reflection on himself and resented it with heat. An explanation by the Illinois senator cleared the atmosphere.

Earlier in the day a lively debate was precipitated by the effort of Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, to have printed as a document some Philippine correspondence. Eventually the matter was ordered printed, as requested.

HEPBURN'S ANNUAL ATTACK.

Harbor Appropriation Bill.

Washington, arch 19 .- The general debate on the river and harbor appropriation bill in the house was enlivened yesterday by Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, who made his annual onslaught on the measure. Contrary to his usual custom, Mr. Hepburn found several things in the bill to commend, although some of his criticisms were quite severe. The other speakers yesterday were Messrs. Ball, of Texas, and Lawrence, of Massachusetts, both members of the committee, and Messrs. White, of Kentucky; Thompson and Burnett, of Alabama, who spoke in favor of the improvements of interest to their districts. It was agreed that general debate on the bill should close today at 3 o'clock. Saturday, April 26, was set aside for memorial services on the late Representative Stokes, of South Carolina, and the late Representative Crump, of Michigan.

The National Period ? of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,

X.-Edgar Allan Poe.

N 1844 a poem appeared which commended itself to many readers by the mystery and sadness with which it was filled, combined with a certain grotesqueness of fancy and singularity of phrase which caught the popular ear and pleased the imagination. Its title came to be associated so intimately with the author that "The Raven" was usually the next word after Poe. To this "Annabel Lee," "The Bells" and "The Lost Lenore" were sometimes added and other poems which, like himself, seemed to belong to some outer world far from the practicality of everyday life and from the usual definiteness of American literature in the first third of the century.

This period was just closing when John P. Kennedy did for Poe what Willis had done for Bayard Taylor in bringing a writer of promise before the public. The young aspirant had met with both good and ill fortune from the start. He was born in Boston Jan. 19, 1809, but of parents who staid there only long enough to complete a theatrical engagement, wandering off on a southern circuit and both dying within two years, leaving three children to the compassion of such friends as they might happen to find.

Edgar was fortunate in being taken up by the wife of a well to do tradesman of Richmond, himself generous in his treatment of the precocious lad, who soon became the petted showpiece of the family. This was his second misfortune. Five years at an English school were followed by six more of preparation for the University of Virginia in a school at home. In both he was active in athletics, a good boxer and swimmer, with one rival in scholarship, prominent in debates and a versifier of repute, yet without intimate friends and inclined as a spoiled boy to be imperious, capricious and self willed. At the university the pursuit of knowledge in those days was relieved by punch and card playing for money. His good fortune he managed to turn into evil by contracting gambling debts to the amount of about $2,500, which Mr. Allan, his foster father, declined to pay, and, taking the wayward youth home at the end of the year, he placed him in his own counting room, from which Poe broke loose and went to Boston. He took with him as capital with which to begin life once more in that city at the age of 18 a bundle of short poems, which he persuaded another young man to print in a thin volume of 40 pages, entitled "Tamerlane and Other Poems, by a Bostonian." During two years in the army and six months at West Point the other poems, including a revision of "Tamerlane," were composed, to be published in 1831 in New York. Among these were "Helen," "The Doomed City," "The Sleeper," "Lenore" and "The Valley of Unrest," not all of them as they now appear, but a long stride ahead of his Boston book. The forthcoming power of his welrd imagination and the enchantment of his unique diction begin to show themselves. He might truly say:

I have reached these lands but newly From an ultimate dim Thule, From a wild, weird clime that lieth sublime Out of space, out of time.

And be suggest's rather than describes:

Bottomless vales and boundless floods And chasms and caves and Titan woods, With forms that no man can discover For the dews that drip all over; Mountains toppling evermore Into seas without a shore-Seas that restlessly aspire, Surging unto skies of fire-Lakes that endlessly outspread.

This is the dreamland, ghoul haunted and demon peopled, where his sad eye wanders, seeing shapes and visions which come only to one who is afflicted with intellectual delirium tremens. Then, again, he would catch glimpses of seraphic splendor and soar to the zenith in his song of "Israfel:"

> In heaven a spirit doth dwell Whose heartstrings are a lute. None sings so wildly well As the angel Israfel. And the giddy stars, so legends tell, Ceasing their hymns, attend the spell Of his voice, all mute.

Then be feels the dragging of the earthly ball and chain and descends to

If I could dwell Where Israfel Hath dwelt, and he were I. He might not sing so wildly well While a bolder note than this might swell From my lyre within the sky.

The verse is the type of the poet himself, in whom aspiration was always contending with limitation in bitter strife, like Ormuzd and Ahriman, the good angel and the bad of the Persian myth, and sometimes it must have seemed to him like the single handed warfare of Michael the archangel against the

There will always arise the temptation to join the party of accusers or of apologists so soon as the element of the personal life mingles with the literature which an author has created. How far the balance will list to one side or the other depends in such a case as this upon belief in heredity on the one hand and in the ability of the inheritor of evil bent and bias to strengthen the brain as he grows up and lives on. If, however, a moral weakness to resist be added to strong appetite in the inheritance, it would seem that the child should have large allowances made for an almost inevitable wreck. Perhaps in Poe's instance the lapses into inebriety were not so culpable as the seeming perversity with which he threw away those opportunities and advantages which would have gone far to retrieve a false start in life, for which he was no more responsible than for the good fortune of being born in Boston. Indeed throughout his checkered career he displayed remarkable facility for snubbing main chances. Nevertheless he contrived to live by his pen for 17 years. It is the work of that period more than his manner of life that is of present concern. It began in Baltimore with winning a prize of $100 offered by a weekly paper for the best prose tale. This was accompanied by a poem which would have taken another prize if two premiums had been allowed to go to one author. The recommendation of the committee of award that he should print such stories as he had on hand was a compensation and gave him an encouraging start with the paper above mentioned. Magazine editorship soon followed, with an apprenticeship in story writing. "Ligeia," "The Haunted Palace," "The Fall of the House of Usher," some "Literary Small Talk" and book notices, with a textbook on conchology, belong to this period. His stories soon amounted to 25 in number and were published as his installment of prose. The same characteristics are prominent as in his verse, but even more pronounced. He deals with the realm of the improbable bordering on the impossible. To this he sometimes gives the appearance of likelihood by attempts to account for his invented occurrences on scientific principles. He also employs a direct and explicit style, in itself carrying an impression of truth, but it is only to give reality to shadows and the similitude of fact to that which in the nature of things could not be. As in his verse, the titles of his prose tales are full of dark suggestion and the fascination that goes with it. "The Facts In the Case of M. Valdemar," "Mesmeric Revelation," "The Black Cat," "The Pit and the Pendulum," "The Fall of the House of Usher," "The Premature Burial," "The Mark of the Red Death," "The Murders In the Rue Morgue," "The Mystery of Marie Roget"all these and others like them are suggestive of enigmas, disasters and crimes. They are dark complexioned themes, shadowy with twilight forms gliding on unholy errands. They give glimpses of an outer limbo where the inhabitants of another world hover on the borders of this with fell intent or sad remi-

The stories themselves fulfill the promise of their titles. They reek with horrors. Delusions that prove fatal, remorse that follows involuntary crime, tombs that are prisons, vaults for those who cannot die, low hanging clouds, starless gloom, trees swaying in windless air, cold, slimy walls, vermin haunted dungeons, despair and death—these are the lurid points in a symphony of black and red. Sometimes, as in "The Domain of Arnheim," there is lavished

New York March 19 .- A swift and in many of its details picturesque fire last night destroyed the pier of the Phoenix steemship line in Hoboken, N. J., river front, with many bales of cotton and hay; burned that company's vessel, the British Queen, to a hulk, consumed several lighters and their cargoes; damaged a dock belonging to the Barber steamship line, and for a time threatened the property of the Holland-American line and the huge Campbell stores. The loss, according to estimates last night, will approximate $1,000,000.

Two persons, it is believed, perished, and others may have lost their lives. There were some narrow escapes.

Such followers have not been born to be mystics, alchemists and jugglers in the black art, like Poe, in whose mind, as in the seven chambers of his Prospero's castellated abbey, there stalked a multitude of weird dreams in the carnival of "The Red Death." But if one wishes now and then to get far out of the highways of literature into the land which lies next to the unseen and the unknown, whither only one or two in a ce tury have gone and returned with even a plausible account of what they have seen, then this gloomy, wayward, but second sighted spirit

Question of Jurisdiction Raised and Sustained-Chaffee to Appeal to Washington.

Manila, March 19 .- The court martial appointed to try Major Littleton W. Waller and Lieutenant John H Day, of the marine corps, on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial, held its first session yesterday. Major Waller was represented by Captain Arthur T. Maiix, of the marine corps; Major Edwin F. Glenn, of the army and Mr. Sutro, a lawyer. General

William H. Bisbee presided. Captain Marix pleaded that the court lacked jurisdiction, as marines cannot be tried by the army, except when attached to that service, whereas Major Waller returned to duty with the marines in February, though the acts charged occurred in January, and, consequently, the army had voluntarily forfeited its right to a trial. The orders of either General Chaffee, Secretary Long or the president, Captain Marix asserted, were

President John Mitchell arrived from Altoona shortly before 11 o'clock and was met at the station by President John Fany and Secretary George Hartlein, of district No. 9. He was not accompanied by Secretary-Treasurer Wilson the latter having gone to Huntington, W. Va., to preside over a convention of the bituminous coal miners.

President Mitchell has entirely recovered from the disposition which overtook him in the west. The failure of the operators to meet the officials of the miners' union was the principal topic of discussion among the delegates prior to the convention. Many of them are insistent in their demani for recognition of the union, but the impression prevails that if other concessions are made by the operators the matter of recognition will be permitted to rest for the present.

The convention merely organized yesterday and the proceedings were simply preliminary to the more important work to follow.

REASON FOR THE CLAUSE.

Operators Willing to Continue Scale Under Present Conditions.

Philadelphia, March 19.-There appears to be some misapprehension on the part, not only of the anthracita coal miners, but others, relative to the 60 days' clause in the notice posted last week by the coal operators continuing the present wage scale to April 1, 1902. A high official of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, in interpreting the notice, yesterday

"We can look sufficiently far into the future to believe that present conditions will continue for a year, at least, and that we can continue to pay the wages now in effect until April 1, 1903. Beyond that time no one can foretell with any degree of in the memorable strike of 1900 began safety, and while the operators are perfectly willing to continue the present wage rate beyond that time, should present conditions then exist, they are unwilling to pledge themselves to that effect, and hence the represented by over 600 delegates, provision of the 60 days' notice, in the event of the necessity for a change."

If we could send over there 1,000,000 American citizens or 2,000,000 of them with our American ideas, we could expedite and hasten this movement toward their elevation. That we cannot do. There will not be in all those islands 10,000 Europeans and Americans, and if there are more than that number they will not be the men who go there to uplift and elevate those people. They will be the men who go there to exploit them. Men will go there to make wealth. They will not be the missionaries of good government. If there is to be an elevation, our standard is entirely too high for the Asiatic mind. It must be an Asiatic evolution and not an American one.

I agree that this problem is a difficult one, and I think we should take into consideration what we are trying to do. WE ARE TRYING TO DO WHAT THE PRESIDENT DECLARES NEVER HAS BEEN DONE AND WHAT I DECLARE NEVER CAN BE DONE. The president said it never was done with an Asiatic race. I declare that it never has been done-although the effort has been frequently tried-with any race whatever. Literature

N 1844 a poem appeared which commended itself to many readers by the mystery and sadness with which it was filled, combined with a certain grotesqueness of fancy and singularity of phrase which caught the popular ear and pleased the imagination. Its title came to be associated so intimately with the author that "The Raven" was usually the next word after Poe. To this "Annabel Lee," "The Bells" and "The Lost Lenore" were sometimes added and other poems which, like himself, seemed to belong to some outer world far from the practicality of everyday life and from the usual definiteness of American literature in the first third of the century.

This period was just closing when John P. Kennedy did for Poe what Willis had done for Bayard Taylor in bringing a writer of promise before the public. The young aspirant had met with both good and ill fortune from the start. He was born in Boston Jan. 19, 1809, but of parents who staid there only long enough to complete a theatrical engagement, wandering off on a southern circuit and both dying within two years, leaving three children to the compassion of such friends as they might happen to find.

Edgar was fortunate in being taken up by the wife of a well to do tradesman of Richmond, himself generous in his treatment of the precocious lad, who soon became the petted showpiece of the family. This was his second misfortune. Five years at an English school were followed by six more of preparation for the University of Virginia in a school at home. In both he was active in athletics, a good boxer and swimmer, with one rival in scholarship, prominent in debates and a versifier of repute, yet without intimate friends and inclined as a spoiled boy to be imperious, capricious and self willed. At the university the pursuit of knowledge in those days was relieved by punch and card playing for money. His good fortune he managed to turn into evil by contracting gambling debts to the amount of about $2,500, which Mr. Allan, his foster father, declined to pay, and, taking the wayward youth home at the end of the year, he placed him in his own counting room, from which Poe broke loose and went to Boston. He took with him as capital with which to begin life once more in that city at the age of 18 a bundle of short poems, which he persuaded another young man to print in a thin volume of 40 pages, entitled "Tamerlane and Other Poems, by a Bostonian." During two years in the army and six months at West Point the other poems, including a revision of "Tamerlane," were composed, to be published in 1831 in New York. Among these were "Helen," "The Doomed City," "The Sleeper," "Lenore" and "The Valley of Unrest." not all of them as they now appear, but a long stride ahead of his Boston book. The forthcoming power of his welrd imagination and the enchantment of his unique diction begin to show themselves. He might truly say:

I have reached these lands but newly From an ultimate dim Thule. From a wild, weird clime that lieth sublime Out of space, out of time.

Bottomless vales and boundless floods And chasms and caves and Titan woods, With forms that no man can discover For the dews that drip all over; Mountains toppling evermore Into seas without a shore-Seas that restlessly aspire, Surging unto skies of fire-Lakes that endlessly outspread.

This is the dreamland, ghoul haunted and demon peopled, where his sad eye wanders, seeing shapes and visions which come only to one who is afflicted with intellectual delirium tremens. Then, again, he would catch glimpses of seraphic splendor and soar to the zenith in his song of "Israfel:"

> In heaven a spirit doth dwell Whose heartstrings are a lute. None sings so whally As the angel Israfel, And the giddy stars, so legends tell, Ceasing their hymns, attend the spell Of his voice, all mute.

Then be feels the dragging of the earthly ball and chain and descends to

If I could dwell Where Israfel Hath dwelt, and he were I, He might not sing so wildly well A mortal melody. While a bolder note than this might swell From my lyre within the sky.

The verse is the type of the poet himself, in whom aspiration was always contending with limitation in bitter strife, like Ormuzd and Ahriman, the good angel and the bad of the Persian myth, and sometimes it must have seemed to him like the single handed warfare of Michael the archangel against the devil

There will always arise the temptation to join the party of accusers or of apologists so soon as the element of the personal life mingles with the literature which an author has created. How far the balance will list to one side or the other depends in such a case as this upon belief in heredity on the one hand and in the ability of the inheritor of evil bent and bias to strengthen the brain as he grows up and lives on. If, however, a moral weakness to resist be added to strong appetite in the inheritance, it would seem that the child should have large allowances made for an almost inevitable wreck. Perhaps in Poe's instance the lapses into inebriety were not so culpable as the seeming perversity with which he threw away those opportunities and advantages which would have gone far to retrieve a false start in life, for which he was no more responsible than for the good fortune of being born in Boston. Indeed throughout his checkered career he displayed remarkable facility for snubbing main chances. Nevertheless he contrived to live by his pen for 17 years. It is the work of that period more than his manner of life that is of present concern. It began in Baltimore with winning a prize of $100 offered by a weekly paper for the best prose tale. This was accompanied by a poem which would have taken another prize if two premiums had been allowed to go to one author. The recommendation of the committee of award that he should print such stories as he had on hand was a compensation and gave him an encouraging start with the paper above mentioned. Magazine editorship soon followed, with an apprenticeship in story writing. 'Ligeia," "The Haunted Palace," "The Fall of the House of Usher," some "Literary Small Talk" and book notices, with a textbook on conchology, belong to this period. His stories soon amounted to 25 in number and were published as his installment of prose. The same characteristics are prominent as in his verse, but even more pronounced. He deals with the realm of the improbable bordering on the impossible. To this he sometimes gives the appearance of likelihood by attempts to account for his invented occurrences on scientific principles. He also employs a direct and explicit style, in itself carrying an impression of truth, but it is only to give reality to shadows and the similitude of fact to that which in the nature of things could not be. As in his verse, the titles of his prose tales are full of dark suggestion and the fascination that goes with it. "The Facts In the Case of M. Valdemar," "Mesmeric Revelation," "The Black Cat," "The Pit and the Pendulum," "The Fall of the House of Usher," "The Premature Burial," "The Mark of the Red Death," "The Murders In the Rue Morgue," "The Mystery of Marie Roget"all these and others like them are suggestive of enigmas, disasters and crimes.

The stories themselves fulfill the promise of their titles. They reek with horrors. Delusions that prove fatal, remorse that follows involuntary crime, tombs that are prisons, vaults for those who cannot die, low hanging clouds, starless gloom, trees swaying in windless air, cold, slimy walls, vermin haunted dungeons, despair and death-these are the lurid points in a symphony of black and red. Sometimes, as in "The Domain of Arnheim," there is lavished

They are dark complexioned themes, shadowy with twilight forms gliding on unholy errands. They give glimpses of an outer limbo where the inhabitants of another world hover on the borders of this with fell intent or sad remi-

New York March 19 .- A swift and in many of its details picturesque fire last night destroyed the pier of the Phoenix steamship line in Hoboken, N. J., river front, with many bales of cotton and hay; burned that company's vessel, the British Queen, to a hulk, consumed several lighters and their cargoes; damaged a dock belonging to the Barber steamship line, and for a time threatened the property of the Holland-American line and the huge Campbell stores. The loss, according to estimates last night, will approximate $1,000,000.

IF CRANTED CONCESSIONS.

Anthracite Miners May Overlook Failure of Operators to Meet Them.

Shamokin, Pa., March 19.-The most important convention of hard coal miners since that which resulted in the memorable strike of 1900 began here yesterday and is likely to remain in session until Saturday. The three anthracite coal districts, known technically as districts 1, 7 and 9, United Mine Workers of America, are represented by over 600 delegates, the majority of whom presented their credentials. The remainder are expected today. The delegates from the Scranton and Mahoning regions were late in arriving and the convention was not called to order unit 2:15 yesterday afternoon.

a profusion of oriental color-melodies, odors, shrubberies, birds, flowers, silver streams, pinnacles and minarets flashing in red sunlight, the phantom architecture of fairles. Poe has had numerous imitators, especially in the line of the detective story, who have shown at least how dangerous it is to walk the narrow way which he chose to tread and by his careful steps keeping himself from toppling over into the depths of ludicrous pathos. Such followers have not been born to be mystics, alchemists and jugglers in the black art, like Poe, in whose mind, as in the seven chambers of his Prospero's castellated abbey, there stalked a multitude of weird dreams in the carnival of "The Red Death." But if one wishes now and then to get far out of the highways of literature into the land which lies next to the unseen and the unknown, whither only one or two in a ce. tury have gone and returned with even a plausible account of what they have seen, then this gloomy, wayward, but second sighted spirit will be the most satisfactory guide.

HALT IN TRIAL OF WALLER. TO SEE CUBAN PRESIDENT.

Question of Jurisdiction Raised and Sustained-Chaffee to Appeal to Washington.

Manila, March 19 .- The court martial appointed to try Major Littleton W. Waller and Lieutenant John H. Day, of the marine corps, on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial, held its! first session yesterday. Major Waller was represented by Captain Arthur T. Marix, of the marine corps; Major Edwin F. Glenn, of the army, and Mr. Sutro, a lawyer. General William H. Bisbee presided.

Captain Marix pleaded that the court lacked jurisdiction, as marines cannot be tried by the army, except when attached to that service, whereas Major Waller returned to duty with the marines in February, though the acts charged occurred in January, and, consequently, the army had voluntarily forfeited its right to a trial. REASON FOR THE CLAUSE.

Operators Willing to Continue Scale Under Present Conditions.

Philadelphia, March 19.-There appears to be some misapprehension or the part, not only of the anthracite coal miners, but others, relative to the 60 days' clause in the notice post ed last week by the coal operators continuing the present wage scale to April 1, 1902. A high official of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, i interpreting the notice, yesterday said:

"We can look sufficiently far into the future to believe that present con ditions will continue for a year, a least, and that we can continue pay the wages now in effect unti April 1, 1903. Beyond that time no one can foretell with any degree o safety, and while the operators are perfectly willing to continue the present wage rate beyond that time should present conditions then exist they are unwilling to pledge themselves to that effect, and hence the provision of the 60 days' notice, in the event of the necessity for a change.'

He further added that were condi tions changed on April 1, 1903, which warranted a change, the present wage scale would have to continue for 66 days after April 1, 1903, at least.

cars and, leaning against the bumpers, had probably fallen asleep, as it is said he has been drinking heavily during the past two weeks. While in this position he was crushed between the cars, which had been hit several times by the switching engine that was working in the yards just before he was found.

The ambulance was called and the injured man was taken to the home of his brother, John Sylvies, who resides near the lower end of Fourth street. Drs. Hobbs and Trimmer were called and immediately administered an anaesthetic to relieve the pain. from which the man was suffering terribly at the time. An examination showed that the bone in the arm had been split from the elbow to the shoulder, and quite a number of the smaller bones in the shoulder were broken, while the flesh of the injured member was ground almost to a jelly.

The doctors have not fully decided whether amputation will be necessary to have the man's life or not. If an operation is performed it will probably not be done until tomorrow.

Sylvies said this morning that he had no idea how the accident happened, that he did not remember go ing near the railroad track, and the first he knew of anything being wrong was when he recovered consciousness lying on the platform of the freight depot, awaiting removal to his brother's home.

Sylvies is well known in this city. He is a printer by trade and worked on the different newspapers here about two years ago, when he left to join Ringling Bros.' circus. He returned here about two weeks since. and is said to have spent much time frequenting the saloons.

THE CREDITORS TOOK A HAND

And on the Same Day Came And Took Their Goods Away-The Pair And Their Friends Left Chester Very Suddenly.

The work of one of the smoothest individuals that has ever attempted to swindle East Liverpool and Chester merchants and the public in general was brought to a sudden termination at what was supposed to be his home in Chester yesterday.

A man giving his name as Zeb Barker, and his residence as Ritchie county, W. Va., together with a woman supposed to be his wife, arrived here about six weeks ago. The fellow's appearance was that of an innocent farmer, rather than a smooth crook

J. E. McDonald was the first one they approached and negotiations were at once entered into for the purchase of one of Mr. McDonald's new houses near the Chester tin mill. They desired to purchase for cash, saying that they owned two farms in Ritchie county and their uncle would arrive here the following week with the money to complete the purchase. Terms were easily agreed upon and they were at once given possession of the house, which had then just been completed.

This much accomplished they then began to visit the different furniture stores, and in a comparatively short time had the house furnished from cellar to garret with the best furniture that money could buy.

At each place where purchases were made they gave the story that they for cash, and assured the merchants the debts would soon be liquidated, as the man had an excellent position in the mill. The same story was given to the Chester grocers and butchers who have supplied them, together with some three or four female companions, who have resided with them since taking up their residence here.

The day of reckoning came, however. Yesterday it seemed that every creditor had set on the same day to try to recover everything that it was possible. Furniture, grocery and butcher wagons were backed up to all sides of the house. The first thing to be removed was a $400 piano and then the furniture dealers began to grab their goods as fast as they could. The grocers and butchers soon divested the cupboard, and all that remained after the game was over was The fifth number of the high school a few straws upon which the carpet

Nominates Officers For the Year and Receives Membership Applications.

The East End Pastime club, at a meeting held in its rooms on First avenue, last evening, nominated the following officers to serve for a term of one year: President, Thomas Putnam; vice president, Ted Allison; secretary, Edward Fisher; assistant secretary, Martin Calhoun; treasurer, Martin Calhoun. The election will be held two weeks hence.

Several propositions for membership were received, which will be acted upon at the next meeting.

Welcomed on Board a Battleship by His Royal Brother.

PLEASED WITH AMERICAN TRIP.

Again Expressed His Pleasure at His Reception to an Interviewer-Said He Would Tell the Same to His Brother, the Emperor.

Cuxhaven, March 19 .- The Hamburg-American line steamer Deutschland arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening from Cherbourg, having on board Prince Henry, of Prussia, and his suite. The Deutschland was met in the roadstead by the German battleship Kaiser Wilhelm II, on board of which was Emperor William. His majesty greeted Prince Henry cordially. The prince boarded the battleship, which afterwards started for Cuxhaven, March 18 .- (On board steamer Deutschland, 3 p. m.)-As the steame: drew near to Cuxhaven Prince Henry received the correspondent of the Associated Press in his cabin. The prince said:

"I desire to send a last word through you to America, to say how deeply grateful I am for the measureless kindness I received while there. I tried to say this before I left, but I want to say again that I am grateful for the cordial and generous manner in which the people and the president of the United States received me.

Talked With Many Individuals.

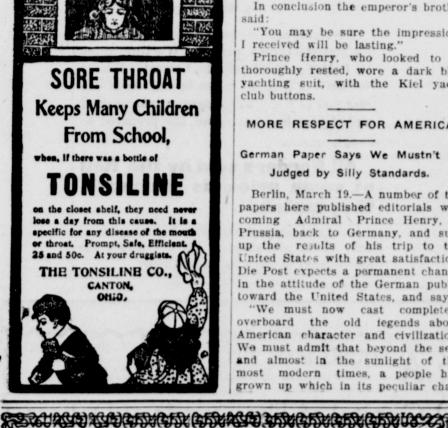

"I met and talked with as many individuals as I could, but of course I gaw most of the people in crowds, and sometimes only from the railroad car platform, and only long enough to touch my cap or take off my hat to them. I wish to thank all those thousands for the trouble they took.

The prince spoke with feeling. "I had no opportunity," he continued, "of studying the details of industry as I would like to have done." As to the fatigue of the trip, the prince said:

"I was often tired and I had to be careful of what I said, both publicly and privately. PRINCE IN GERMANY, WHAT THE NEGRO NEEDS

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON. President of Tuskegee Institute

EGROES should be taught that their salvation is in learning to own and cultivate intelligently and skillfully the soil. 'AGRICULTURE WILL PROVE OUR SALVATION, AND THE RACE SHOULD BE SLOW TO ABANDON THE FARM. Just now a large proportion of the race needs that education which will make the youth return to the farm and produce fifty bushels of corn where only twenty-five grew before rather than yield to the temptation to go to a city and attempt to live by their wits.

FOR 250 YEARS THE NEGRO WAS WORKED. WHAT HE WANTS TO LEARN NOW IS TO WORK. FOR ONE TO LEARN THAT WORK IS HONORABLE AND TO BE IDLE IS DISHONOR-ABLE IS AT THE FOUNDATION OF CIVILIZATION.

There are still those who doubt the progress of the negro. Let me give you a few definite facts. The official records of the state of Georgia show that at the close of the last year the negro owned 1,141,000 acres of land and paid taxes, all told, upon property to the value of over $15,000,000, adding $1,000,000 to the taxable value of his property during the past year. In Virginia the reports are equally encouraging. Other southern states show much growth in the same direction.

IT IS NOT THE NEGRO WHO HAS BEEN PROP-ERLY TRAINED IN HAND, HEAD AND HEART WHO COMMITS CRIMES. It is the ignorant, shiftless negro who has no regular occupation, who has not learned to love labor and who does not own a home who is usually the criminal. When a man becomes the owner of a piece of land and a decent house and has a bank account, he becomes, I notice, at once a conservative, law abiding citizen and one who can be trusted to vote intelligently for the best interest of the community in which he lives.

that have to be taken into account. What I said in my Philadelphia recognized as the equal of the old speech was precisely the truth. It civilized countries. Henceforth our might have been thought that during my talks with President Roosevelt, States should not be influenced and and my ride with him alone, I might have said a word or two of a political character, but such was not the case. No political topic was alluded to on either side."

Prince Henry referred to President Roosevelt's attentions and said he had not received the president's farewell telegram, as he was by that time at sea, and that he only saw the text of the message upon his arrival at

A SPANISH COUNT CURED OF LA GRI

Count Segundo de Ovies was a Carlist exile. The signature of his uncle Louis De Ovies, is found with that of John Quincy Adams ceding Florida to the United States in a treaty with Spain. The Count is forty-six years of age, an exile from Orietto, situated in the northern part of Spain, and has been exiled since 1876; he is wealthy, and has traveled and studied the customs, habits and languages of twenty-five different nations.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, the Count gives his endorsement to their great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following

The Canfield, Atlantic City, N. J. The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen-"Last winter my secretary had a severe attack of la grippe which was cured effectually by the use of four bottles of Peruna, so when I contracted the same unpleasant sickness last fall I at once sent for a bottle. It truly worked wonders, and removed factory results from the use of Peruns, the sickening and sore feeling I had within a few days. I would not be without it now for any money, and when I go away I carry Peruna as a valuable perquisite to my traveling outfit." --- JULIAN vice gratis. SEGUNDO, CONDE DE OVIES.

NEARLY everybody is having la what in the beginning a severe cold. A chill or cold spell is followed by aching bones, sore throat, headache. cough, and general weakness. Its course may be quite slight or severe, but in either case it nearly always leaves one in a miserable condition.

Unless Peruna is taken it will be weeks or months before a person regains his usual health. If the victim is fortunate enough to begin the use of Peruna at the commencement of the attack the course of the grip is much shortened, and the system is left in a natural state. People who have had la grippe, but are still suffering from the after-effects. should not neglect to take Peruna, as it will promptly restore them to health. Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments of the Henry Distin Manufacturing Co., writes the following from .

1441 South Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa: "I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna. I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."-Henry Distin.

A large per cent of those who are afflicted with this epidemic, instead of getting well as they ought to, will have chronic catarrh as the result. This is almost invariably the case unless Peruna is taken as soon as possible after the grip begins.

Every one who has observed the effect of Peruna during the last three epidemics of la grippe positively knows that this remedy will cure it permanently.

The fact is, however, that a great multitude of people will not take Peruna, and a foundation for chronic catarrh will be laid.

Even in cases where chronic catarrh has affected the lungs, and the early stages of catarrhal consumption have been developed, Peruna can be relied upon as a prompt and lasting cure. La grippe and catarrh are at present the two great enemies of life in the land. Peruna is a cure for either.

OBITUARY

Jethro Manley, Jr.

Jethro Manley, Jr., died at the home of his mother-inlaw, Mrs. McGovern, in the East End, at 12:16 last night. Consumption was the cause of death, from which disease he had suffered for a long time. He was 42 years of age and has been a resident of East Liverpool all his life. He is survived by four children, Harry, Sadie, Bertha, Carl, his wife having died about four years ago. Mr. Manley worked in the potteries of the city as a presser for many years, and was among the best known men in the county. He was generous to a fault, and the needy never appealed to him in vain. From Recent Character Was the Stock Market on Tuesday. Some Features

New York. March 19 .- The recent character of the stock market was not materially changed Tuesday. Speculative incursions into the field of the usually important stocks were few and desultory in character. Now and then a seemingly active buying movement would develop in some stock that had been occasionally a market leader in the past, but the activity would as suddenly subside and the dealings revert to some rarely active stock. The high priced special-were also brought up to a considerably higher level of prices. The minor railroads were less conspicuous, although a few of these continued to show wide movements. There were declines on profit taking in these classes as well as the new strong points. The most conspicuous movement of this kind was in North American, which jumped about in an erratic manner in the course of a sensational advance of 141/2 points on more prominent stocks Amalgamated Copper continued active and found clines. Much of the buying was at tributed to the demand from shorts to cover. Sugar, on the other hand, was reactionary on account of the disputé over the reduction of the tariff on Cuban sugars. An instance of the disposition to take profits on good news was the selling of Pacific Mail on the passage of the ship subsidy bill by the senate. The New York public utilities also suffered from profit taking after some early advance. The most consistent movement of the day was that in the coalers, which represented a speculation on the outcome of negotiations between anthracite miners and operators for an agreement upon relations during the coming year. Opposition Develops Under the Leadership of the Cuyahoga Delegation.

FATE OF BILL IN DOUBT

Columbus, O., March 19 .- (Special.)-There is a somewhat tempestuous way ahead for the mundcipal code bill even when amended to meet the demands made by different cities. Last week it looked as if the bill would slip through with an almost unanimous vote. George B. Cox, of Cincinnati, had sent word that it was agreeable to him. Dayton, Columbus and Toledo were all in line and it was supposed Cleveland would likewise give endorsement. But saddenly on Monday the members from Cuyahoga announced that they would not support the measure. This was followed by similar statements from other members, and it was discovered that a good sized opposition existed which had needed but the opportunity to show itself. This opportunity was presented through the leadership of the Cuyahoga members. Mayor Johnson, of Cleveland, doubtless excited the animosity of the Cuyahoga men, and did it after a careful review of the measure which, he said, some of the representatives had evidently neglected to do. The chief complaint is that the bill classes together under one herd all municipalities of 5,000 people or more, and provides for the same form of government. He declares it to be the heighth of folly to suppose that what would be suitable for Cleveland and Cincinnati would be equally well suited to a small town of 5,000 inhabitants. He believes the reverse of this proposition to be equally lacking in the element of good judgment. Moreover, the contention is made that the majority of the members have failed to read the bill with any care and are lacking in anything like a comprehensive idea of its provisions, and for them to vote for something they do not understand, he says, would be neglecting to perform their duty. As to the failure to pick their way through the 1,200 sections of the bill many of the members must plead guilty, for to have done so would have meant the neglect of nearly everything else. The result of this determined opposition is felt and the bill is not so sure of passage as it was a week ago. Its defenders, however, are working in its behalf with a most commendable zeal, and refuse to admit that anything like defeat awaits them. Should the bill go under, its overthrow will be followed by a flood of local measures affecting different municipalities where changes in government are desired, and most of which the supreme dourt will probably declare unconstitutional. This argument s to be used in favor of the general bill, and, indeed, is the chief peg upon which its supporters are hanging their hopes. They contend that in no other way can the network of laws be untangled and anything like uniformity of city government had.

That staid and solid member, Mr. Willis, of Hardin county, who seldom attempts to change established customs, has broken over his rule and prepared a bill advocating the creation of a new state department-as if there were not enough state departments now. He desires to secure anqual inspections of the affairs of the officials of every county in the state at least once a year, in order that the taxpayers may have the gratifying knowledge that their money is being expended in the right way and their officials keeping close to the straight and narrow path. To carry the pill into effect it would be necessary to appoint three inspectors, who would work under the direction of the state auditor. These officials would be obliged to worry along on an amual salary of $2,000 each per year, together with their traveling expenses. But at that Mr. Willis says the state would be money ahead, while its reputation for honest officials would be even better than it is now. Speaking of his measure, the author says: "The idea is

MUNICIPAL CODEBILL Our Day Was Once but Six

By SIR ROBERT BALL, Professor of Astronomy and Geometry, Cambridge, England

ODAY is longer than yesterday and yesterday longer than the day before; not a great difference, a fragment of a second in an aggregate of centuries. The loss in a million of years is about seventeen minutes. in 4,000,000 years about an hour; so 4,000,000 years ago the day was twenty-three hours long.

GOING FARTHER BACKWARD, ONE COMES TO DAYS OF TWENTY-TWO HOURS, TWENTY, FIFTEEN, TEN, EIGHT, EVEN OF SIX HOURS.

This may have been 300,000,000 years ago, but there is evidence that at one time the rotation of the earth was four times as rapid as now. It then had sixteen times as much energy as at present. Fifteen-sixteenths of that now is gone. But energy is never lost. In this case it has been transformed into heat, and in the radiation of that heat the earth has simply parted with so much of its original energy. The earth is gradually dissipating its heat into space. THE HEAT MOVING FROM THE CENTER OF THE GLOBE TO THE SURFACE AND LOST THERE EACH YEAR WOULD BE ENOUGH TO MELT A FILM OF ICE COVERING THE ENTIRE EARTH ONE-TENTH OF AN INCH THICK.

If the earth is losing heat and has been doing so, it was once hotter than it is now; ages since it was redhot, white hot, molten fire mist. Some believe the earth's heat is due to the friction of the tides. Undoubtedly the tides have an influence in slowing the earth's rotation on its axis, and this bears upon our point. The remarkable boring for coal near Leipsic has established the gradient of the earth's temperature, proving that below a certain point near the surface, to which the heat of day penetrates, there is a regular increase in temperature. At a mile below that point the thermometer registers a constant temperature of 80 degrees higher than at the point itself, and conditions show that that gradient continues.

By ingenious investigation a means has been found of computing the heat equivalent of tidal action. The gradient thereof has been discovered to be a degree for every 2,000 feet, which is entirely inadequate to account for the known gradient of 80 degrees. The latter, hence, is due to internal heat.

If must be changed, and would be, but this bill passed examinations being a regular thing authorized by the state | Third and the Thirteenth, and others and under state control, there would be no excitement attending the matter, and it would be looked upon as a part of regular procedure. Officials would look more closely to their work and better results had all around. For that reason it ought to pass.

Protests against and petitions for the abandonment of the canals still continue to pour in and flood the members. If the canals were let loose the flood could not be greater. For things that were thought to be old and worn out and of no use, the canals have created enough excitement to warrant their continuance for 100 years. The sentiment of the people seems to be about evenly divided, shifting according to location, and the interests of the people petitioning. As a matter of fact the situation surrounding this legislation is as difficult of solution as it was a week, or even two weeks ago, and no one knows what the outcome will be, except that it may be definitely said the entire system will not be given up. Portions of it here and there may be dropped wherever it can be demonstrated that doing so will not result either in working injury to the system as a whole, or to interests lying along the canal banks. Mr. Painter, of Wood, the original advocate of canal abandonment, still maintains that the waterways will be given up in a large measure, but he admits that the entire system cannot be abandoned at this time.

Tank of an early adjournment is vanishing. With a volume of business before it consisting of more than 600 unpassed bills and more coming in nearly every day, with the appropriation bill in a yet uncompleted state, and with the wheels moving slowly, the hope of getting through before the latter part of April is futile unless much that ought to be done is left undone. Things have not moved with the quickness and precision this year Every ordinary cold deserves that they usually do, owing largely to the amount of important business which has been presented. The matter It is only a step from it into of redistricting the state, the municipal code bill, the canal abandonment easure, the proposed change in the primary election laws and the taxation reforms, have all taken up time and prolonged the session. True, they offered opportunity to members to demonstrate their eloquence, and many new orators have been brought out, but it has all been done at the expense of early adjournment. Not one of these important measures is yet a law, and the fate of all hangs in doubt, the tide swinging back and forth day by day like a pendulum as new arguments for and against are presented. The only bills which give any real hope of getting through without being amended out of all semblance of original form are the taxation measures, and it has

BEET SUCAR'S FRIENDS BEATEN.

First Test of Strength Shown on Vote on Motion For Previous Question. Dick Offered a Resolution, Which Met With Defeat.

Washington, March 19 .- The advo ates of the Cuban reciprocity scored decisive victory last night at the conference of the Republican men: bers of the house of representatives. the proposition of Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee, for a 20 per cent reduction of duty, with the Sibley amendment limiting the duration of the reduced rates to Dec. 1, 1903, being adopted by a vote of 85 yeas to 31 nays. This result was reached at 11:30 o'clock, after a protracted debate, followed by a series of exciting roll calls. The first test was when Mr. Payne concluded the speechmaking with a motion for the previous question on all pending propositions. The motion prevailed, 78 to 56.

A vote was then taken on a substitute offered by Representative Dick, of Ohio, in behalf of those opposing the reciprocity plan, offering in its stead a plan of direct payment to Cuba covering several years. This was defeated, 57 to 79. An amendment by Mr. Morris, of Minnesota, to take off the differential on refined sugar was defeated, 50 to 72. The ways and means proposition for reciprocity, with the Sibley amendment limiting its duration, was then agreed to, 85 to 31. While the voting was in progress quite a number of those who oppose the ways and means plan left the chamber.

OTIS CAVE TESTIMANY.

Said Trouble Was Over When He Left Philippines, but He Expected More.

Washington, March 19 .-- Major General Otis again appeared before the senate committee on Philippines yes terday. His testimony was in part: When he left the Philippines in May, 1900, General Otis said that the army had dispersed all of Aguinaldo's army, quiet prevailed during the months of May and June and hardly a shot was fired. It was safe to go to all parts of Luzon and other islands and a very large trade had been cstablished. A civil government had been set up, also the supreme court and courts of first instance in 7 of the 19 provinces of Luzon.

General Otis said that when he left of the house steering committee, has Manila he apprehended further trouble, because there was a certain ela ment which dominated the ignorant week. Asked by Senator Hale where the supplies, money, arms, etc., of the insurgents came from, General Otis said they received 2,500 rifles from Admiral Dewey, and they received as they were a week ago, while the from Hong Kong certain arms, shipped aboard an American vessel, which landed at Batanyas. They had received some arms from Japan and had captured some from the Spaniards at small garrisons which they attacked. He said that the merchants gave him more trouble than the insurgents themselves.

Not Capable of Self-Government.

As to the capacity of the Filipinos for self-government he said that Aguinaldo's former secretary of state had told him that it would take 100 years to accomplish this. General Otis considered that the Filipinos were not capable of self-government. The Filipinos, he said, understand that they must have protection, be cause without it other nations would divide up the islands, but they were desirous of making the best possible Town, March 19.-Cecil terms they could with the United Rhodes was weaker last night. Washington, March 19 .- For three hours yesterday the senate had under consideration the bill providing for the protection of the president of the United States and for the punishment by United States courts of those who commit assaults on him. Mr. Bacon, of Georgia, opposed the bill, and Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Mason, of Illinois, supported it. Mr. Bacon's arguments followed the lines of his speech delivered 10 days ago. Mr. Hoar's speech was largely legal and constitutional. Mr. Mason made an attack upon anarchy and its methods, and incidentally criticised an amendment to the bill offered by Mr. Bacon. He denounced it as opening the door to special pleading for the benefit of assassins of the president. This drew Mr. Bacon's fire. He considered Mr. Mason's criticism a personal reflection on himself and resented it with heat. An explanation by the Illinois

HEPBURN'S ANNUAL ATTACK.

Mand an Onslaught on the River and Harbor Appropriation Bill.

Washington, arch 19 .- The general debate on the river and harbor ap propriation bill in the house was en livened yesterday by Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, who made his annual onslaught on the measure. Contrary to his usual custom, Mr. Hepburn found several things in the bill to commend. although some of his criticisms were quite severe. The other speakers yesterday were Messrs. Ball, of Texas, and Lawrence, of Massachusetts both members of the committee, and Messrs. White, of Kentucky; Thompson and Burnett, of Alabama, who spoke in favor of the improvements of interest to their districts. It was agreed that general debate on the bill should close today at 3 o'clock. Saturday, April 26, was set aside for memorial services on the late Representative Stokes, of South Carolina, and the late Representative Crump, of Michigan.

The National Period ? of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D., Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

On the section and a second and a second and a second a s

X.-Edgar Allan Poe.

N 1844 a poem appeared which commended itself to many readers by the mystery and sadness with which it was filled, combined with a certain grotesqueness of fancy and singularity of phrase which caught the popular ear and pleased the imagination. Its title came to be associated so intimately with the author that "The Raven" was usually the next word after Poe. To this "Annabel Lee," "The Bells" and "The Lost Lenore" were sometimes added and other poems which, like himself, seemed to belong to some outer world far from the practicality of everyday life and from the usual definiteness of American literature in the first third of the century.

This period was just closing when John P. Kennedy did for Poe what Willis had done for Bayard Taylor in bringing a writer of promise before the public. The young aspirant had met with both good and ill fortune from the start. He was born in Boston Jan. 19, 1809, but of parents who staid there only long enough to complete a theatrical engagement, wandering off on a southern circuit and both dying within two years, leaving three children to the compassion of such friends as they might happen to find.

Edgar was fortunate in being taken up by the wife of a well to do tradesman of Richmond, himself generous in his treatment of the precocious lad, who soon became the petted showpiece of the family. This was his second misfortune. Five years at an English school were followed by six more of preparation for the University of Virginia in a school at home. In both he was active in athletics, a good boxer and swimmer, with one rival in scholarship, prominent in debates and a versifier of repute, yet without intimate friends and inclined as a spoiled boy to be imperious, capricious and self willed. At the university the pursuit of knowledge in those days was relieved by punch and eard playing for money. His good fortune he managed to turn into evil by contracting gambling debts to the amount of about $2,500, which Mr. Allan, his foster father, declined to pay, and, taking the wayward youth home at the end of the year, he placed him in his own counting room, from which Poe broke loose and went to Boston. He took with him as capital with which to begin life once more in that city at the age of 18 a bundle of short poems, which he persuaded another young man to print in a thin volume of 40 pages, entitled "Tamerlane and Other Poems, by a Bostonian." During two years in the army and six months at West Point the other poems, including a revision of "Tamerlane," were composed, to be published in 1831 in New York. Among these were "Helen," "The Doomed City," "The Sleeper," "Lenore" and "The Valley of Unrest," not all of them as they now appear, but a long stride ahead of his Boston book. The forthcoming power of his weird imagination and the enchantment of his unique diction begin to show themselves. He might truly say:

I have reached these lands but newly From an ultimate dim Thule, From a wild, weird clime that lieth sublime Out of space, out of time.

And be suggest's rather than describes:

Bottomless vales and boundless floods And chasms and caves and Titan woods. With forms that no man can discover For the dews that drip all over; Mountains toppling evermore Into seas without a shore-Seas that restlessly aspire, Surging unto skies of fire-Lakes that endlessly outspread.

This is the dreamland, ghoul haunted and demon peopled, where his sad eye wanders, seeing shapes and visions which come only to one who is afflicted with intellectual delirium tremens. Then, again, he would catch glimpses of seraphic splendor and soar to the zenith in his song of "Israfel:"

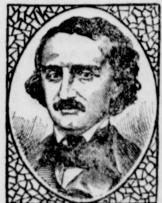

> In heaven a spirit doth dwell Whose heartstrings are a lute. None sings so wildly well As the angel Israfel, And the giddy stars, so legends tell, Ceasing their hymns, attend the spell Of his voice, all mute.

Then be feels the dragging of the earthly ball and chain and descends to

If I could dwell Where Israfel Hath dwelt, and he were I, He might not sing so wildly well A mortal melody. While a bolder note than this might swell From my lyre within the sky.

The verse is the type of the poet himself, in whom aspiration was always contending with limitation in bitter strife, like Ormuzd and Ahriman, the good angel and the bad of the Persian myth, and sometimes it must have seemed to him like the single handed warfare of Michael the archangel against the

There will always arise the temptation to join the party of accusers or of apologists so soon as the element of the personal life mingles with the literature which an author has created. How far the balance will list to one side or the other depends in such a case as this upon belief in heredity on the one hand and in the ability of the inheritor of evil bent and bias to strengthen the brain as he grows up and lives on. If, however, a moral weakness to resist be added to strong appetite in the inheritance, it would seem that the child should have large allowances made for an almost inevitable wreck. Perhaps in Poe's instance the lapses into inebriety were not so culpable as the seeming perversity with which he threw away those opportunities and advantages which would have gone far to retrieve a false start in life, for which he was no more responsible than for the good fortune of being born in Boston. Indeed throughout his checkered career he displayed remarkable facility for snubbing main chances. Nevertheless he contrived to live by his pen for 17 years. It is the work of that period more than his manner of life that is of present concern. It began in Baltimore with winning a prize of $100 offered by a weekly paper for the best prose tale. This was accompanied by a poem which would have taken another prize if two premiums had been allowed to go to one author. The recommendation of the committee of award that he should print such stories as he had on hand was a compensation and gave him an encouraging start with the paper above mentioned. Magazine editorship soon followed, with an apprenticeship in story writing.

"Ligeia," "The Haunted Palace," "The Fall of the House of Usher," some "Literary Small Talk" and book notices, with a textbook on conchology, belong to this period. His stories soon amounted to 25 in number and were published as his installment of prose. The same characteristics are prominent as in his verse, but even more pronounced. He deals with the realm of the improbable bordering on the impossible. To this he sometimes gives the appearance of likelihood by attempts to account for his invented occurrences on scientific principles. He also employs a direct and explicit style, in itself carrying an impression of truth, but it is only to give reality to shadows and the similitude of fact to that which in the nature of things could not be. As in his verse, the titles of his prose tales are full of dark suggestion and the fascination that goes with it. "The Facts In the Case of M. Valdemar," "Mesmeric Revelation," "The Black Cat," "The Pit and the Pendulum," "The Fall of the House of Usher," "The Premature Burial," "The Mark of the Red Death," "The Murders In the Rue Morgue," "The Mystery of Marie Roget"all these and others like them are suggestive of enigmas, disasters and crimes. They are dark complexioned themes, shadowy with twilight forms gliding on unholy errands. They give glimpses of an outer limbo where the inhabitants of another world hover on the borders of this with fell intent or sad remi-

The stories themselves fulfill the promise of their titles. They reek with horrors. Delusions that prove fatal, remorse that follows involuntary crime, tombs that are prisons, vaults for those who cannot die, low hanging clouds, starless gloom, trees swaying in windless air, cold, slimy walls, vermin haunted dungeons, despair and death-these are the lurid points in a symphony of black and red. Sometimes, as in "The Domain of Arnheim," there is lavished

New York March 19 .- A swift and in many of its details picturesque fire last night destroyed the pier of the Phoenix steamship line in Hoboken, N. J., river front, with many bales of cotton and hay; burned that company's vessel, the British Queen, to a hulk, consumed several lighters and their cargoes; damaged a dock belonging to the Barber steamship line, and for a time threatened the property of the Holland-American line and the huge Campbell stores. a profusion of oriental color-melodies, odors, shrubberies, birds, flowers, silver streams, pinnacles and minarets flashing in red sunlight, the phantom architecture of fairles.

Poe has had numerous imitators, especially in the line of the detective story, who have shown at least how dangerous it is to walk the narrow way which he chose to tread and by his careful steps keeping himself from toppling over into the depths of ludicrous pathos. Such followers have not been born to be mystics, alchemists and jugglers in the black art, like Poe, in whose mind, as in the seven chambers of his Prospero's castellated abbey, there stalked a multitude of weird dreams in the carnival of "The Red Death." But if one wishes now and then to get far out of the highways of literature into the land which lies next to the unseen and the unknown, whither only one or two in a ce. tury have gone and returned with even a plausible account of what they have seen, then this gloomy, wayward, but second sighted spirit

Manila, March 19 .- The court martial appointed to try Major Littleton W. Waller and Lieutenant John H. Day, of the marine corps, on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial, held its first session yesterday. Major Waller was represented by Captain Arthur T. Marix, of the marine corps; Major Edwin F. Glenn, of the army, and Mr. Sutro, a lawyer. General

William H. Bisbee presided. Captain Marix pleaded that the court lacked jurisdiction, as marines cannot be tried by the army, except when attached to that service, whereas Major Waller returned to duty with the marines in February, though the acts charged occurred in January, and, consequently, the army had voluntarily forfeited its right to a trial. President John Mitchell arrived from Altoona shortly before 11 o'clock and was met at the station by President John Fany and Secretary George Hartlein, of district No. 9. He was not accompanied by Secretary-Treas urer Wilson the latter having gone to Huntington, W. Va., to preside over a convention of the bituminous coal miners.

President Mitchell has entirely re covered from the disposition which overtook him in the west. The failure of the operators to meet the officials of the miners' union was the principal topic of discussion among the delegates prior to the convention. Many of them are insistent in their demani for recognition of the union, but the impression prevails that if other concessions are made by the operators the matter of recognition will be permitted to rest for the present.

The convention merely organized yesterday and the proceedings were simply preliminary to the more important work to follow.

REASON FOR THE CLAUSE.

Operators Willing to Continue Scale Under Present Conditions.

Philadelphia, March 19.-There appears to be some misapprehension on the part, not only of the anthracita coal miners, but others, relative to the 60 days' clause in the notice post ed last week by the coal operators continuing the present wage scale to April 1, 1902. A high official of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, it interpreting the notice, yesterday

"We can look sufficiently far into the future to believe that present con ditions will continue for a year, at least, and that we can continue t pay the wages now in effect until April 1, 1903. Beyond that time no coal miners since that which resulted one can foretell with any degree of in the memorable strike of 1900 began safety, and while the operators are perfectly willing to continue the present wage rate beyond that time, should present conditions then exist, technically as districts 1, 7 and 9, they are unwilling to pledge them-United Mine Workers of America, are selves to that effect, and hence the represented by over 600 delegates, provision of the 60 days' notice, ia change."

He further added that were condi tions changed on April 1, 1903, which warranted a change, the present wage scale would have to continue for 60 days after April 1, 1903, at least.

American Invasion Will Not Result In The Filipino's

Elevation

By United States Senator HENRY M. TELLER

BSERVERS, STUDENTS OF HISTORY, WILL BEAR ME OUT IN THE STATEMENT THAT THERE IS NO EXAMPLE WHATEVER IN THE HISTORY OF MAN-KIND WHERE A GREAT BODY OF PEOPLE NU-MEROUS OR HALF AS NUMEROUS AS THE FIL-IPINOS HAVE EVER BEEN ELEVATED BEYOND THEIR CONDITION BY THE INVASION OF A SU-PERIOR RACE.

If we could send over there 1,000,000 American citizens or 2,000,000 of them with our American ideas, we could expedite and hasten this movement toward their elevation. That we cannot do. There will not be in all those islands 10,000 Europeans and Americans, and if there are more than that number they will not be the men who go there to uplift and elevate those people. They will be the men who go there to exploit them. Men will go there to make wealth. They will not be the missionaries of good government. If there is to be an elevation, our standard is entirely too high for the Asiatic mind. It must be an Asiatic evolution and not an American one.

I agree that this problem is a difficult one, and I think we should take into consideration what we are trying to do. WE ARE TRYING TO DO WHAT THE PRESIDENT DECLARES NEVER HAS BEEN DONE AND WHAT I DECLARE NEVER CAN BE DONE. The president said it never was done with an Asiatic race. I declare that it never has been done-although the effort has been frequently tried-with any race whatever. The most promising race of the world has made its progress by its own ambition and ideals and not from those of others, and so it will be with those people.

To Owners of Vacant Lots:

We are about to publish the most complete sale list of vacant lots ever offered to the purchasing public of East Liverpool; its scope will cover from the state line to Walkers; and from the river to Thompson's Boulevard. It will be issued in the form of a supplement, to each of our daily papers on Saturday, March 29th; complete description, location and price of your lot will be given in it if you will place it on sale with us or or before March 22d. In order that the public of East Liverpool may appreciate this list and preserve it we will give on its reverse side a complete upto-date map of East Liverpool, showing and naming teach street, alley, addition, public building, works, etc., and useful statistical information of the city. Every lot in the city is saleable. Place yours with us at once if you desire to sell.

To Prospective Purchasers of Vacant Lots:

It will pay you to wait until March 29th before purchasing and see what is on sale with us. Our map will help you under-stand the city and determine where you want to live or invest. It is a well established fact that our prices are always under. We will save you money, time and serve you in many ways if you will let us. Delay your purchasing until our list

To the General Public:

We are about to place in your hands a complete up-to-date map of East Liverpool. We trust that though we have an adverist-ing profit through it that it will be of convenience to you and will help you locate the street upon which you live and know its name and that you will co-operate in getting our city council to renumber our streets, rename some of them and above all place the names at the corner of the intersecting streets.

Yours Truly,

Elijah W. Hill, Real Estate Dealer.

P. S. Extra copies of the News Review of March 29th will be printed that all desiring maps may be supplied ..

Salt and Cancer. As eminent London physician advances the theory that excess of salt is one of the four factors which cause cancer. It is essential, but is inoperative without one or two others. Excess of salt may arise from too much meat. He considers that other factors are overnourishment, an impure condition of the body resulting, owing to the nonuse and nonoxidation of food. Some local irritant or stimulant, such as friction from the stem of a pipe or irritant from some micro organism, must always be present. Cancer is seldom seen among Jewesses, possibly from the difference of diet. Savages, so far as is known, are exempt from cancer, and they get no salt. All the domestic animals, except the pig, are subject to cancer, and salt is given to sheep, cows and horses, but never to described the second of the second of the second
